

ANDREA ABRAMS

Andrea Abrams is the Executive Director of Defending American Values Coalition (DAVC), a non-profit engaging and equipping individuals and organizations to effectively advocate for and defend diversity, equity and inclusion against coordinated anti-DEI efforts. As part of the American Pride Rises Network, DAVC coordinates with others to make the national case for why DEI is vital and provides the tools to protect and extend DEI values and practices. Abrams comes to this work having been the Vice President for Diversity, Equity and Inclusion and an Associate Professor of Anthropology at Centre College. Abrams' research and teaching focus on race, gender and social justice. She earned a graduate certificate in women's studies and a Ph.D. in anthropology from Emory University.
